Art

Critics' picks The five best events this week

- 1 James Turrell Solomon R. Guggenheim Museum
 For his first New York museum show since 1980, the maestro of California Light and Space art transforms the Gugg's rotunda into a spectacle of optical legerdemain. ▶ Fri 21–Sept 25; see Museums
- 2 "Snapshot Noir: Snapshot Stories from the Collection of Robert E. Jackson" Pace/MacGill
 The sometimes weird and uncanny aspects of otherwise ordinary images are the focus of this show of found personal photos. ▶ Thu 20–Aug 21; see 57th Street
- 3 Jimmy De Sana Salon 94 Bowery
 A fixture of New York's downtown music scene of the late 1970s and early '80s, De Sana's photos are both lurid and classical, surreal and pornographic. ▶ Thu 20–Aug 16; see Lower East Side
- 4 Jane and Louise Wilson 303 Gallery
 This show by the British artist-sister duo includes photos taken at Pripjat, the town abandoned in 1986 after the meltdown at nearby Chernobyl. ▶ Tue 25–Aug 2; see Chelsea
- 5 Eamon Ore-Giron Nicolle Beauchene Gallery
 The L.A. artist's intimate geometric abstractions are inspired in part by the work of midcentury Latin American modernists such as Carmen Herrera and Maria Freire. ▶ Through July 12; see Lower East Side
