Takuro Kuwata at Salon 94 Sep. 9 – Oct. 24, | Freeman Alley

Kuwata's explosive ceramics – metallic vessels oozing with droplets of gold or silver, fusions of stone and porcelain covered in thick, cracked layers of glossy glaze – appear to defy the medium's steep traditions, yet ironically, and as the title of his new show "Dear Tea Bowl" suggests, the Japanese artist's radical forms reflect a mastery of classic techniques.
